Prague, Sept. 4 (Reuters)—James Bond has become a strip cartoon hero in Czechoslovakia, the Ceteka news agency said today.

In the latest edition of the army weekly newspaper Obrana Lidu, Ian Fleming's Agent 007 crossed the Czechoslovak border in a flying chair.

Ceteka said the weekly decided to publish the cartoon serial because listeners to a Bond program on the Czechoslovak radio were entertained by his "ingenuity and bravery in outwitting naive security bodies behind the 'Iron Curtain'."
